Downtown casino meets opposition

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis residents jammed into Tuesday's City Council meeting, taking every available seat and perching in the stairwell to blast a casino proposed at the foot of Main Street.

In the process, they also let aldermen know they're upset no action has been taken to produce a comprehensive zoning plan to limit where gaming establishments may be built.

"Where's the wisdom of destroying a town to allow a handful of people to become rich?" asked Andrew Tilden, drawing applause amid his comments.

"If a casino goes in that area, you have destroyed downtown," said Irwin Cuculla, contending that a proposed parking garage next to the casino wouldn't keep gamblers from overcoming downtown with vehicles.

One irate citizen termed the casino an "absolutely ridiculous idea."

Six members of the Murphy family have proposed what they say will be a small-scale floating casino at 109 South Beach Boulevard, encompassing Dan B's restaurant and lounge.

Councilmen and the mayor said they have seen nothing official on the proposal, and the proponents were not at Tuesday's meeting to support it.

The only visible backing for the casino came earlier in the day when the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association issued a statement in support, saying its membership had voted on the matter.

"The T&G is committed to the economic betterment of the City of Bay St. Louis through the increased development of tourism generally, and through the gaming industry in particular," said spokesman Jim Henrie.

"We realize, of course, there will be obstacles to overcome, mainly in the form of traffic and transportation, but if this new development will add life to our downtown commercial district, isn't this a happy problem?" he said.

The council took no action on the issue -- nothing is pending for their approval -- and they made no comments during the meeting indicating how they view the idea.

After the meeting, Mayor Eddie Favre and Council President James Thriffley refused to comment on it.

What brought the crowd to City Hall was recent news that Murphy Beachfront Development, Inc., is filing an application with state officials for a Jubilee opens Fri.

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino is set to open its doors Friday.

In action that took less than 10 minutes Wednesday, the state Gaming Commission held a special meeting in Biloxi to award the Hancock County casino its operating license.

"Unbelievable. It's one of the greatest days of my life," said a beaming George Baxter after the three-man commission sailed through a series of votes clearing the casino to open.

Baxter, president and chief operating officer, said Jubilee would open its doors for a VIP reception at 5 p.m. The doors swing open at 7 p.m. to the general public.

The initial, or "soft" opening, was approved for Jan. 7, but state regulations require a temporary shutdown on Sunday night. Gaming officials then reinspect the facility and its operations for a minimum of 48 hours, giving Jubilee a prospective, permanent opening on Jan. 12.

Baxter said some 500 area officials and dignitaries are expected at the pre-opening party Friday.

"The community has been very supportive of us ... since Day 1," Baxter said.

For Baxter, Day 1 began almost three years ago in initial planning for the facility.

Wednesday's action puts the $39 million facility in a position several months after casino officials had hoped -- licensing was delayed because state gaming officials are swamped with casino applications and have insufficient staff to do the required background investigations.

To expedite Jubilee's application, the casino applied for a license with Colorado state gaming authorities. Some of the principals involved in the casino, owned by Alpha Gulf Coast, Inc. of New York, were investigated by the Colorado authorities, and the information was forwarded to Mississippi.

Meanwhile, some 1,000 employees representing an $18 million annual payroll are set to go to work immediately -- casino officials said the opening delays had led to a "very little" loss of the personnel they've trained to run the casino.

With 65,000 square feet, including 30,000 square feet of gaming activity, the casino features 867 slot machines and 60 gaming tables.

Supervisors approve appointments for '94

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors began the new year Monday with annual appointments of county officials and employees.

District 4 Supervisor Wilmer Seymour was elected vice president of the board. Michael Ladner is in the middle of a four-year term as board president.

Sam Cuevas was reappointed to his position as road superintendent, at a rate of $2,525 monthly. District 3 Supervisor Howard Lizana casting a negative vote.

The board accepted the resignations of two county election commissioners, James A. Ladner and Keith Mitchell, both of whom noted that state law would prohibit them from seeking public office unless they resigned from the commission by the first of the year.

Waveland joins Miss. Main Street program

BY AMY PICKICH

The Waveland Board of Aldermen unanimously agreed to join the Mississippi Main Street Association at $250 a month to help the city build economic development in the downtown area at Tuesday's board meeting.

Community development director Keith Mitchell said under the program grant monies are available to the city to help "revitalize the downtown area."

Mitchell said by joining the city could work on such projects as returning the traditional downtown look to areas such as Coleman Avenue and reopening the civic center.

Alderman Stan Weidman called for a discussion of a recent action by the Southern Regional Wastewater District to issue $4.4 million in revenue bonds to double the size of the sewer treatment plant which serves Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Weidman said he had been concerned with the treatment plant carrying capacity, which had now been exceeded.

He asked Mayor Stella Frilot if she or a representative on the district's board knew the treatment plant was "rapidly reaching capacity" prior to the board's recent sewerage agreement with Galaxy Casino. He also asked what it would cost the city of Waveland for the upgrade.

The county will incur 55 percent of the expense to upgrade, Bay St. Louis, 35 percent and Waveland, 10 percent.

Frilot said the 10 percent of the $4.4 million the city will incur is no surprise as "we've been telling you about that for a good two years."

Weidman insisted there had been no discussion of the board concerning the growth of the sewerage treatment plant.

Frilot said that was not true, as the other alderman agreed there had been discussions on the matter.

Rappold said the treatment plant and the transmission line in the city of Waveland are two different things, as the city does not own the treatment plant, discussions of which would occur at wastewater district meetings.

Colson said he specifically remembered discussing the matter because the county and Bay St. Louis are going to support the majority of funds to upgrade the plant. He also said he had known about the upgrade for some time as it has been an ongoing process and will make surrounding areas more odor-free.

Weidman continued to question the amount of gaming license at the downtown site.

As soon as the news broke, city officials said their phones started ringing with opponents who wanted a forum to register their concerns.

Extra chairs were set up in anticipation of the Tuesday night turnout, but there were more citizens than seats. The audience then filled up the stairwell, and others stood or sat on the floor.

"Realize that the article was a complete surprise to everyone at this table...I had no idea" of the proposal, said Thriffley.

ZONING ISSUE

But officials did have comments concerning the planning and zoning issue, saying action is expected soon to finalize a comprehensive plan.

Planning and Zoning Commission members are scheduled to meet with City Council on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. to discuss what's needed to finalize the document.

Thriffley said public hearings would be set later, before the document is adopted.

At this point, council is considering hiring outside help to finish work on the ordinance. Thriffley said he agreed with the audience that action on the zoning plan is overdue.

Angered citizens reminded council that consultants long ago were hired to write a gaming study for the city -- that study recommended only two sites as suitable for casinos in Bay St. Louis, Casino Magic's present location and a site at the foot of the Highway 90 bridge.

But Thriffley said that document isn't sufficient in itself to be a total re-write of the city's zoning ordinance.

Most of the opposition aired Tuesday was not with gambling itself. Traffic, parking, crime and disruption of the city's quaint, historic atmosphere were cited by the audience.

One man also questioned the proposed facility's ability to evacuate in advance of a hurricane, noting it would be nestled between the CSX railroad and Highway 90 bridges.

Some residents who also are merchants said Casino Magic actually has hurt business downtown.

Kay Ward, who lives in Bay St. Louis but works in the tourism industry in Gulfport, said Harrison County had been enthusiastic about the impact casinos would have on tourism there.

"It has not been so," she said of the hoped-for commercial revitalization. "Casinos are excellent in bringing people to the casinos and keeping them in casinos."

One merchant predicted businesses would begin folding in Bay St. Louis, unless the trend here is reversed, to recapture the "foot traffic" to local shops.

Later in the meeting, one woman suggested an effort be launched to court gamblers on the out-of-town "junks" sponsored by Casino Magic.

She said perhaps brochures, discounts, maps and information on the historic town could be presented to such travelers as they get off charter flights.

Every speaker at the meeting drew applause. Dr. Ed Deuschle, pastor of First Baptist Church on Main Street, said he was speaking for the 500-resident members of his congregation in proposing the casino.

Thriffley complimented the crowd for their courtesy, and said he was pleased to see such interest in the council's proceedings. Most of the audience left after the public comment period ended.

Then, the aldermen went into executive session to discuss an unrelated lawsuit settlement proposal.

FIREWORKS

In other action, aldermen asked one of their attorneys to draft an ordinance controlling discharge of firearms in the city. They also are considering placing some controls over sale of fireworks in the city limits.

At-large councilman James Rutherford complained about the proliferation of fireworks tents in the city during the recent holiday season, and said he'd like to restrict the sales of fireworks in some fashion.

"I'd like to see us get a handle on this. I don't want to outlaw fireworks, but...I'm really tired of seeing these tents," Rutherford said.

That issue also was discussed at council's "workshop" session Monday.

In another matter, council agreed to seek proposals for a preliminary study of potential contamination at the CSX depot. The city is buying the facility as an Amtrak station, but there is concern that a later contamination cleanup could be necessary, at city expense.

ON PATROL

SHOOTING

Johnny Gryner, 58, of Pearlton has been charged with aggravated assault, after allegedly shooting his neighbor in the neck Sunday, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Peterson said officers need to talk further with Allen Guidry of Pearlton, who was shot with a 12-gauge shot gun and remains at Hancock Medical Center, about the incident before they can determine what led to the shooting.

However, Peterson said police have determined the suspect was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the shooting.

Gryner has been released on a $5,000 bond and awaits an appearance in court, according to Peterson.

BURGLARIES

Three juveniles were arrested Monday in connection with a number of burglaries at a Leopold Street residence, according to Bay St. Police Detective Tom Burleson.

Burleson said an investigation determined the juveniles, ages 15, 16 and 17, had stolen some $1,000 worth of property at the same residence over a three-month period.

He said the burglaries occurred at night when the residents were home.

Burleson said the 15-year-old was charged with two counts of burglary and one count of possessing stolen property; the 16-year-old with six counts of burglary and two counts of receiving stolen property; and the 17-year-old with two counts of burglary, one of which involved the burglary of another residence in which a weapon was used.

According to Burleson, the juveniles have been released to their parents pending a youth court hearing.

Reward offered for stolen hogs

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Three hogs on medication were illegally butchered and stolen from the farm of Rodney Reeves, Rocky Hill community, 9 miles north of Kiln, on the night of Dec. 30.

Reeves said, "The three hogs were being treated for Enteritis and are not fit for consumption. If consumed, the danger of developing long-term illness is possible and even death for small children."

"Symptoms of the sickness are difficulty breathing, internal bleeding, blood clotting and allergic reactions," Reeves added. Reeves is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in the butchering of his three hogs.

Two other hogs owned by Reeves were also stabbed during the theft. Reeves said they killed the three hogs, gutted them in the pen, threw them over the fence and dragged them about one-fourth of a mile to a road.

For information, contact Nathan Hoda, Hancock County criminal investigator, 467-5101, or the Mississippi Livestock Theft Department, Jackson, 601-354-6726.

Supervisors

Both said they have not decided whether to run for office. The board's reappointments included Gerald Gex as county attorney, at a salary of $2,208 per month. E. Michael Necaise was reappointed as county clerk, treasurer and auditor, Youth Court clerk, clerk of the Chancery Court, and county administrator.

Necaise said Wednesday he did not know what his salary was in 1993, as reports are not due until April 1994.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A few walkers have been taking advantage of the cool, frosty mornings making their rounds around the walking track.

Some may think we are foolish, and maybe so, but it is really refreshing to walk on those frosty mornings.

Walking is good for just about everyone. Hindsight is always 20-20, but I should have been walking for exercise all of my life.

In recent months, mostly in the evenings, I have noticed an increase in younger persons walking at the track.

This is good, and it is hoped they will continue to exercise for the rest of their lives.

Exercise by Americans has declined over the years because of so many modern conveniences.

Think about it. If you haven't tried it, you may enjoy walking, too.

The American Red Cross Hancock County Blood Drawing held last week at Casino Magic netted 81 units of blood.

This was one of the largest blood drawings held in the county since Operation Desert Storm.

It is good to see so many of the employees of the Bay St. Louis casino donate a unit of blood.

Blood is always in short supply, and I know those involved with the Hancock County Blood Bank really appreciate Casino Magic's efforts.

John Rutherford, Hancock County Blood Bank chairman, reminds everyone of the importance of donating blood. One never knows when a family member may need blood.

Rutherford also appreciates the dozen or so helpers, who assisted with the Casino Magic drawing.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

A restoration process

Mississippians seem to be losing confidence in state government.

The reason — chronic problems continue to exist in the state despite similar campaign pledges over the past half century from successful candidates for executive and legislative positions.

It's a matter of trust and a matter of candidates living up to their word. It's a case of promises broken. And, often, a governor finds that, because of the system, he is simply unable to fulfill a campaign promise.

The time has come to strengthen the office of the governor, allowing the Governor additional authority serving as the state's chief executive officer. Giving the Governor more authority will balance the executive and legislative branches of state government and, hopefully, restore voter confidence.

The Mississippi Economic Council has adopted a policy to strengthen the office of governor. Under the MEC recommendation, the Governor would appoint the state's nonconstitutional, statewide officers — the Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, the Commissioner of Insurance and the three Public Service Commissioners. Also, the Council has recommended that the three-member State Transportation Commission be eliminated and the Governor be allowed to appoint a single state Transportation Commissioner.

It's a move to strengthen executive government as a whole. The bottom line is government efficiency, and efficiency leads to restored confidence among Mississippians.

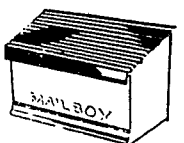

Mississippi has, for centuries, maintained its history through restoration, preserving the past for future generations.

Now Mississippi must make one of its most important restorations — that of voter confidence.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Litter campaign a success, yet a long way to go

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee, I wish to thank the citizens of Hancock County for making our Litter Free '93 campaign such an enormous success.

We have made a quantum leap forward this year, but unfortunately we have a long way to go before we are indeed litter free.

Speaking of "litter free," there's nothing "free" about litter! Anthony Shaw from Bay Catholic stated it so well in his prize winning essay... "Litter is not free. In fact it is very expensive. Litter costs money to clean up, not to mention the cost of our beautiful view of Bay St. Louis."

How right he is — national litter expert Dan Syrek estimates cleaning up our nation's roadways alone costs $1.2 billion a year or over $5 for every man, woman and child in this country. (This does not include cleaning up private property or the efforts of us volunteers!)

We can not afford the luxury of litter!

You feel that you have the "right" (?) to litter? Think it makes you look macho to litter? Think someone else can/should pick up after you? Please learn from our young people who know better.

Anthony concludes his essay, "Some grown ups aren't very grown up when it comes to cleaning up their mess. That is very lazy. When I see litter I will pick it up and even though I'm only nine, I will never start the habit of littering. I want our community to be litter free!"

In this new year, please become part of the litter free way of life. Let's save that $1.2 billion+ and our beautiful country.

Very truly yours,
Carol Vegas

SCHOOLS

Q Must the board of supervisors concur with the County School Board of Education for the lease of 16th Section school lands?

A The board of supervisors under Section 29-3-1 has the power to object to the rental value being placed on the land. Section 29-3-1 contains a rental value dispute resolution mechanism. There is granted no general power of approval or veto to the board of supervisors concerning the other terms of a lease. (Attorney General's Opinion to Meadows dated October 21, 1993)

Q If a teacher under contract was absent because of illness for a substantial part of the school year, does that year count as a year's experience for state retirement purposes?

A Where a school employee does not render services for the full, legal term, Section 25-11-109(2) provides that credit for partial years of service may be acquired for retirement purposes in one-quarter year increments. (Attorney General's Opinion to Chaney dated October 19, 1993)

Q Is there authority for a school district to pay an employee's medical bills for a work-related injury that occurred prior to the effective date for mandatory workers' compensation?

A The school board may utilize the authority under Section 25-1-47 to settle the claim by payment of the medical bills assuming there was some degree of negligence on the part of some other school employee that led to a claim against the district. There is no authority to compensate for purely accidental injuries. (Attorney General's Opinion to Bailey dated October 29, 1993)

Q In compliance with Section 37-11-25 and 37-11-31, must a youth court judge report to the superintendent arrests and/or other convictions of misdemeanors or charges of juveniles in their school?

A Section 43-21-261 provides that records involving children shall not be disclosed except pursuant to an order of the youth court specifying the person or persons to whom the records may be disclosed. A youth court judge may authorize release of information to the schools when the judge finds that such disclosure is required for public safety and finds that the health or safety of that student or any other students may be affected if the information is not made available to school officials. Section 37-1-29 and 37-11-31 still apply to offenses committed by those over 18. (Attorney General's Opinion to Bennett dated November 3, 1993)

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

State Representative finds differences in Mississippi

Can a transplanted Yankee gal who grew up around the raucous politics of Chicago find happiness in the good ole boy Mississippi Legislature?

Just ask state Rep. Pat Miller of Walls (that's up in DeSoto County) about her impressions after one year as one of the 122 members of the state's lower house, and you can hardly stop her from talking.

If she is experiencing culture shock only eight years removed from Cook County, North Shore Chicago, to a seat in a Mississippi lawmaking body that is perhaps best described as "quaint," Miller certainly doesn't show it.

She is too awed by the history, drama and ambience of the 90-year-old state Capitol and its legislative halls to take anything lightly about where she is and how she got there or the persons with whom she serves.

"For a Yankee, I would never have dreamed I would be serving in this building," the 48-year-old mother of three said last week on a pre-session visit to the Capitol. In her maiden 1993 session of the House, she decided it was best to keep her mouth shut and just listen.

After all, Miller had never served in any elective office before, not at state, city or county level. What she lacks in experience is made up for in her keen love of politics and an enthusiasm to be a part of the political decision making.

From her childhood in the Chicago area, discussion of politics became an integral part of her family life ("who could be born and raised in Cook County and not be interested in politics?") Even though her father never was a candidate for anything, the family was always involved in somebody's campaign.

Pat had never been to Mississippi or the South (although she almost came down as freedom rider in the mid-1960s, and would have if her father hadn't dissuaded her with a lecture: "Those people will solve their problems, not some girl from a lily-white Chicago suburb.") However, she always had a nostalgia about the region from her father's tales of having played football at Alabama under Bear Bryant.

After two years of college, she had married at an early age to a serviceman during the Vietnam War, had three children and in a few years found herself with a husband "who didn't want to be married anymore." So, for the next seven years, she had to support three children, working for a cancer hospital in Chicago.

Pat didn't think she would marry again, but she met Robert Miller, a computer specialist for the Chicago Police Department, who had had a similar unfortunate marriage and was caring for his three children. They married and Pat then found herself with a brood of six, all of whom remarkably got along very well together.

By the early 1980s, both Pat and Bob made up their minds to get out of Chicago and when they talked of where to move, she inevitably said, "Let's go South."

He sent out resumes all over the country, and as fate would have it, one day in 1984 he came home and announced he had been offered a job as head of data processing for the Sacred Heart League's southern mission. It was based, he learned, in the tiny town of Walls, Mississippi.

They immediately fell in love with the town. "From the day we came, I knew I was home," says Pat.

From the 150-employee office in Walls, the Catholic priests and sisters of the Sacred Heart League run a network that fans out around the country, doing missionary work among both poor blacks and whites.

Soon after she came to Walls, Pat got involved in politics and public affairs, and quickly found herself thrust into the role of spokesperson for a homeowners association that stopped location of a substandard project.

Then came a big controversy over a medical waste incinerator being located at the DeSoto-Tunica county line. Pat was pressed into duty as the spokesperson to stop it. She did. And from there she was put on the DeSoto County Planning Commission and made an officer in the DeSoto County Democratic Committee. Her name became known around and about.

So, when the new House District 25 was created in 1991, local folks urged her to run for the seat. There were others with the same idea, and she had to battle her way through two Democratic primaries (winning a runoff by only 12 votes) and a tough general election to get elected.

Unlike many half-hearted Mississippi Democrats, Pat put "Democrat" on all her campaign literature.

sewerage to be transported, some 18 million gallons, coming from Bayou Caddy alone. He asked if the same would come from Galaxy Casino and would the city of Waveland be responsible for the cost.

Frlot said, "It doesn't matter what's coming from where...we are transporting. We are going to get money to transport their sewerage through our line, that's it."

Colson added that the city is doubling its money to transport the sewerage. He said the city will be paid $1 dollar for every $1 of sewerage transported.

The mayor ended the discussion by saying that the city of Waveland would not be assessed for additional sewerage through its line and that she was not going to argue with Weidman anymore about the matter.

BILLS

The board voted 3-1 to accept the bills, with Alderman Stan Weidman voting against the docket.

Weidman questioned a bill of $2,968 to Koch Gateway Pipeline for Jan. 1994 gas services to the city. He asked why the city was still paying the bill when the board voted to do away with the contract in Oct. 1993.

Mayor Stella Frlot said the city bought natural gas from Koch. She added that the city has a contract with Polaris Pipeline Corporation for management services.

The discussion of the bill went back and forth between Frlot and Weidman, who continued to question why the city was buying gas from Koch. He said the mayor previously recommended Polaris, who was supposed to give the city a better deal on the management, storage and supply of gas.

Once again Frlot explained the bill was to Koch for natural gas the city bought and used. She said that Polaris is totally different topic, as the discussion was of the bills.

Alderman Barbara Rappold interjected with an explanation as Weidman was not satisfied with the mayor's answer.

Said Rappold, "Polaris can buy the gas from Koch anytime they want, they are the management firm that is handling our gas system along with the storage people...Koch no longer handles the management and storage, but we can still buy gas from them."

Weidman then asked, "What was the benefit of breaking the contract back in October?"

"We did not break any contract. We had no contract with Koch," said Frlot. "You continually try to combine apples and oranges and try to confuse the issue and make it sound like the rest of this board are a bunch of nimwits and we're not nimwits."

The mayor ended the discussion by reiterating, "You have to buy gas from somebody, we purchased it from Koch."

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Finance committee chairman Mike Durkovich said he would have a report at the first meeting in February on findings, as events in the past few days have severely impacted directions we were taking.

The committee, which was previously suggested by Alderman Curtis Colson, was set up to study possible revenue sources in Waveland.

The board unanimously approved the use of Merchants Bank as depository for the city as they offered free checking and were local.

The mayor announced that the city will sponsor the Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and available space in city buildings to be advertised.

In other matters the board approved the minutes, two parcel sell backs to the original owners, a request by Frances M. Crist, declaring Jan. 25, 1994 as a day of prayer, as announced on EWTN-TV, in Waveland to end the war in Bosnia.

Jubilee officials await news

Its three-story barge-based building features a New Orleans theme, and becomes the ninth casino operating on the Coast.

Officials plan to supplement the casino's dining facilities with an on-land restaurant now under construction.

The only comment from the public aired during Wednesday's meeting came from a man concerned with area barge casinos' ability to evacuate in the event of a hurricane.

Commission executive director Paul Harvey said he and the commission share those concerns and have been meeting with Coast officials and casino representatives on that issue. He termed the evacuation concern the "first order of business" for commissioners during the new year.

Baxter, asked about the comments later, said Jubilee had experts study area hydrology and long-term weather patterns long before the barge was taken to its site just west of Waveland on South Beach Boulevard.

The barge's mooring system can withstand winds of up to 150 miles per hour, he said, and there is a contingency plan to move it to Port Bienville if necessary.

He praised Benchmark Construction of Jackson and Kelly Construction of Gulfport for the quality of work that went into the barge and associated facility construction.

Friday's opening will be preceded by a final inspection of the craft.

Meanwhile, casino, and county officials were working with owners of Ladner's Seafood in hopes of moving two old fuel tanks from a site near the casino parking lot.

Casino attorney Donald Rafferty told the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday they hoped the tanks could be removed by opening time.

Baxter said Wednesday, however, the tanks pose no danger, and it is not necessary that the tanks be removed before the casino opens.

Work continued throughout the week on the casino's massive alligator sign on Highway 90 at Lakeshore Drive, which is newly illuminated with casino-sponsored highway lighting.

Beautification committee to meet, discuss 1994 plans

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee will meet Thursday, Jan. 13, 2 p.m. in the Human Services Building, Longfellow Road, said chairman Ellis C. Cuevas.

Discussions will focus on the committee's continuing programs and new projects.

The beautification committee meets on a monthly basis. The group sponsors two annual countywide cleanups, clean and beautiful awards, adopt-a-street, road or highway campaign and anti-litter education programs in local schools.

In 1994 emphasis will be placed on the medians of highways in the county and enforcement of anti-litter laws. Carol Vegas, anti-litter chairman said, "We need the support and work of all residents of the county in order to meet our goal of being litter free."

The public is invited and urged to participate.

Litter-Free ... AND PROUD TO BE!

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

LSU BOUND

Sounds like a "pro" score to me. A 69 on the Diamondhead course is a pretty good number. Congratulations to Laura Moore, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Moore of Diamondhead, on receiving a full five-year scholarship to Louisiana State University because of her interest and abilities in golf. Jim is the U.S. postmaster in Hancock County.

WATER AND SEWER

The Diamondhead Water and Sewer District commissioners Edward Dable, chairman; Norman Schuback, Warren Swanson, Pat King and Herbert Pritzloff will hopefully respond to the requests outlined in the December newsletter at their next meeting Jan. 10. The public is invited to these meetings. Call 255-5813 for the exact time and place.

COUNTRY CLUB

A proposal of new offerings at the Diamondhead Country Club are: Sunday brunch beginning Jan. 16, monthly dances starting Feb. 19, and a monthly family night buffet Jan. 11.

If there is enough demand to expand the food services beyond the meals served in the grill, the POA is asking the members to help them make the decision to do so.

Please note the prices and schedule of events in your January newsletter, and if you support these activities or some of them, send your check for $50, and you will be sent $50 worth of coupons, equivalent to cash to be used at the club.

The coupons will have no time limit and can be redeemed for cash at any time. This is merely an expression of your desire to have the club begin those expanded services.

It will really be great to see our beautiful country club facility being used to its fullest advantage again, and I urge everyone to support this proposal.

LIGHTING THE WAY

POA manager Paul Montjoy announces that Coast Electric has furnished the Diamondhead POA office with a design for lighting Phase 1 (fire station to the water tower) which they hope to complete in early February. Phase 2 plans are to light up Diamondhead Drive. Then all can see what a beautiful "Paradise" we have.

FIRE DEPT.

The Diamondhead Fire Department is requesting that all qualified residents give serious thought to applying for the position of fire commissioner.

A replacement is needed to fill the vacancy due to the resignation of Sylvia Pross. Details of qualifications are outlined in the January newsletter.

The department thanks everyone for their response to the Christmas tree sale. Boy Scout Troop 20 and the fire department received needed funds to support their programs.

DIAMONDHEAD YOUTH

This active organization is off to a good start for the new year with a new slate of officers. President is Roberta Lottes, vice president, Ed Gobert; secretary, Betty Swanson; and treasurer, Anne Morris.

Anne agreed to chair the bylaws committee and needs volunteers to help with rewriting them.

Busy events ahead include the Junior Golf League, who will resume meeting Saturday, Jan. 8. Call the Pro Shop for details.

The program is open to all ages. Soccer will resume in February. Call Bill at 255-4026 for more information.

Baseball and softball will hold sign up in February. All signups and event information is generally posted on the Cable community billboard, so please watch for updates.

A reminder that 1994 membership dues of $10 per family are due now.

The DYO works with all youth activity groups to improve facilities and coordination.

The next meeting is Jan. 10, 7 p.m. at the community center. Come on out and show your support for this worthwhile organization.

SPCA

The Diamondhead SPCA has a wide variety of warm, purring felines: male, female, kittens, adults, short- and long-haired, almost any color your heart desires, and each one wishing for a loving home.

Cats are great conversationists and a great footwarmer in bed, says Jean Keen, president of our humane society.

And if it doesn't work out, you can always take the animal back. Donations of old towels, blankets, cat litter and dog and cat food are always welcome and needed.

Just call 255-7804, leave a message, and someone will be around to pick up. The next meeting is Feb. 21, so look for details in the February newsletter. And remember, when you spray or neuter your pet, you're saying I love you!

DOING GOOD

Bob and Marge Pflugfelder extend their appreciation and heartfelt thanks to all those who so willingly gave their time and effort to the Salvation Army's kettle.

There were 48 bell ringers who worked four shifts for 12 days in rain and cold, managing to collect over $1,600.

Diamondhead made and delivered over 200 Christmas stockings, 25 of which came from the Community Church Sunday school classes and 15 from generous individuals.

The ladies of Diamondhead made 92 dolls for Christmas giving. Isn't this wonderful? You all know who you are. Thank you for giving of yourselves.

Retirement

Estimate income, expenses before you make decision

Almost all working Americans dream of the day they can kick their feet up and enjoy the good life of retirement.

Unfortunately, statistics show that millions of people across the United States retire at or near the poverty level and that over 50 percent of retirees need government assistance just to survive.

Determining if you are ready to retire financially requires close study of several areas, says Dr. Phil Malone, professor of finance at The University of Mississippi. "The concept involves matching your estimated revenues with your estimated expenses."

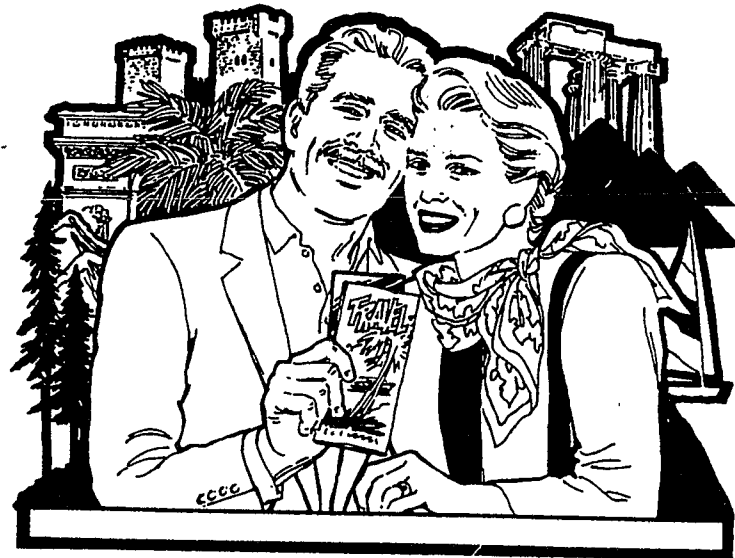

Revenue could include Social Security benefits and when they would come into play, vested retirement savings and potential interest, investment in real properties, investments in stocks and bonds and income-deferred accounts.

"Aggregate those to get some idea of the amount of your future income. You might have other items that would fit into this category, in addition, such as insurance policies."

Social Security benefits should be considered a safety net or a supplement to other retirement resources, according to Malone, not as a sole retirement fund. In addition, the taxes applied to Social Security benefits have continued to climb.

"The minus side of the ledger, determining your estimated expenses, is a much bigger challenge. Define what you need for basic subsistence, and build a 3-5 percent inflation adjustment in that figure," he explained.

Three major areas need consideration when figuring expenses beyond the basics, said Malone:

—Health-care costs. "Health care is by far the most important question you need to address to feel comfortable about retirement," he said.

When you first start considering retirement, find out if your current employer will allow you to continue on the company's health insurance plan. If so, check to see if the premiums will increase.

Don't always assume, Malone warned, that a company will allow you to continue on the group policy, as over the past two years it has become commonplace for companies to eliminate this option to retiring employees.

Group rates on health insurance are usually cheaper than an individual policy. Whether you continue on your existing policy or seek out a new one, Malone suggests overestimating health-care costs generously.

"Keep in mind when estimating these expenses that basic coverage will not pick up all your health-care costs. There's the chance the government may intervene in the health-care situation, but it's not clear what the government will do," Malone said.

—Disability and/or nursing home costs. "Two major issues that are difficult to factor in but should be considered are the concepts of future disability and associated costs of nursing home or long-term care."

"Conceivably a great deal of the income rights you have accumulated could be taken to provide health care and would be unavailable to your family. This is a very real threat. In this sense, it's better that spouses have separate provisions for retirement, as opposed to having all with one," the finance professor related.

—Entertainment costs. "You would want to build in a generous entertainment budget because with your free time you would want to travel, visit family members, pursue hobbies, etc. You would certainly want to have enough income to take advantage of activities that time affords," he said.

If you are retiring early and have tax-deferred investments, consideration also has to be given to tax implications that usually come at the ages of 55, 59½ and 65.

"Tax-deferred investments only allow you to withdraw funds prior to the age of 59½ for a few reasons, such as death, disability or as a life annuity based on your life expectancy. Aside from these stipulations, early withdrawal would be subject to taxes and a 10 percent penalty."

In addition to avoiding any taxes and penalties, you would not want to elect to take proceeds out as a lump sum or over a shorter period of time because you might find yourself in a position later on in life where you didn't have anything to draw on," said Malone.

If you are considering retirement and feel you need some professional advice in estimating income and expenses, the

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Happy New Year to all the fishing buddies out there in hook and line land. The Turtle hopes that Santa Fisherman has been good to you. And now you have all kinda' new neat stuff that you are just antsy to try out on the finned creatures.

With the best fishin', still about four months away, there has to be some place to try out the new gear other than the bath tub. But the place where the fish are biting are severely limited this time of year.

The only reports that I am getting are from places where you can find deep water. We did have one report of some strange looking guy trolling out in the bay, but we felt the report was the result of too much holiday cheer.

I mean, who ever heard of a boat running on two little skis, with open sides, and being powered not by an outboard, but listen to this, being pulled by a heard of 'raindeer'? I am sorry, but I have a hard time believing that that type of boat is seaworthy. Besides, who ever heard of deer that were raining, much less deer that could walk on water.

Now that I have that out of the way, I gotta' tell y'all that the only places that are reporting catches of saltwater fish are Jourdan River, Bayou Caddy and Pearl River.

There are a few reports that the areas around the offshore oil rigs are producing fish like crazy when the weather lets you get out.

But you gotta' watch the weather real close — like if you plan on going to the offshore rigs. Finally, there are some reports of nice catches of winter redfish being caught in the Louisiana Marsh.

The number one spot, in terms of the number of reports of fish caught, this past week has been the Jourdan River. A few nice trout are being caught in the river from the I-10 bridge all the way to the mouth of the river in Bay St. Louis.

The trout by the mouth of the river, by Casino Magic, are responding best to the square baits with the dots on them. This bait works best when the numbers on the dots add up to either seven or 11. Now how did that bait get in this column?

Back to the baits that are producing trout in the Jourdan River. The beetle in purple color has been the best producer, followed by the Thin Fin in natural perch and the Mirrow Lure 52M18.

If you can find some live cacaos, try them about six feet under a cork, or on a sliding sinker on the bottom on the down stream side of where the cut and bayous enter into the Jourdan River.

Remember you gotta' find the deep water, 'cause the fish don't have antifreeze and need to go deep to keep from catching cold.

Slow trolling works best in colder temperatures; oysters are abundant

The best way to fish the rivers and bayous in the winter is to troll slooowly in the deeper section of the canal and bayous. The slow trolling method keeps the bait close to the bottom where the fish are setting up housekeeping.

Another consideration for slow trolling is that the metabolism of the fish slows down in cold weather. This means that the fish don't move fast. So they don't cover as much ground as they would if the water was warm. I will get to the point eventually.

The point of all this is that you need to slow down your whole operation to catch winter fish. Slow trolling, slow retrieving of your bait, and all that stuff.

Before I leave you this week — I gotta' tell you that the oysters are great right now; not only great but they are good tasting, fat and salty.

Which leads me to a recipe for oyster stew that you might want to try to warm up the body on a cold winter day:

OYSTER STEW

- 1 quart of milk
- 1 pint of oysters
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons crushed crackers
- Oyster liquor
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Heat milk on a simmer or low flame; add the crushed crackers and oyster liquor. Melt butter in a separate sauce pan. Add oysters and cook (until the edges of the oysters begin to curl) stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper, mix thoroughly and pour mixture into the hot milk. Cook 5 minutes and serve. Serves six people or two turtles.

This week's wonderful wise words: Don't always take the word of people who use sleighs pulled by 'raindeer' as to where they caught fish.

I wonder how many horsepower a 'raindeer' has, Turtle?

Pirates swipe two from Tigers

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Pass Christian Pirates took two games from the home-standing Bay High Tigers on January 4.

In the first game, the Lady Pirates bowed to the Lady Tigers by the score of 63-38. The halftime score was 30-21 in favor of the Lady Pirates.

The Lady Tigers just couldn't seem to stop the second surge of the Lady Pirates that saw them outscore Bay High 33-17.

Cookie Gardner scored 20 points for a game high to lead Pass Christian to victory. She was followed Tameka Brownlee, who added 12 points and Stacy Ladner, who chipped in 10.

The Lady Tigers were led by Tyelahana Jordan with 10 points and 8 steals. She was assisted by Valerie Christmas who added 8 points and 6 rebounds.

Lisa Yarborough pounded the boards for 11 rebounds.

In the boys game, the Pirates defeated the Tigers by the score of 82-67.

The halftime score was 46-27 in favor of the Pirates. The Tigers got off to a slow start but picked it up in the second half.

The Tigers outscored the Pirates 40-38 in the second half. However, the first half surge by the Pirates seemed a bit much for the Tigers to overcome.

Carlos Malley scored a game high 24 points to lead the Pirates. He was followed by Willie James and Kevin Clark, who each added 10 points.

Gerald Watson led the Tigers with a team high 21 points. He was followed by Travon Payne and Robert Vonture, who scored 14 points and 11 points, respectively.

Next action for the Tigers is the Mayor's Trophy game tonight against St. Stanislaus at the SSC gym.

Mayor's Trophy game tonight

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws and the Bay High Tigers will light up the scoreboard and battle the boards in tonight's Mayor's Trophy game at the Brother Peter Memorial Gym at 7:30 p.m.

The Rocks are riding an 8-6 record going into tonight's game. The Tigers are a steadily improving ball club with a 2-13 record. With a rivalry like this, the records and statistics can be thrown out.

SSC is led by its big man in the middle Terry Lawyer. Lawyer, a 6'7" sophomore, averages 20 points along with 12 boards a game.

Vince Moran, a 6'1" junior, chips in 13.5 points per game and grabs 8 boards a game. Other starters are Brandon Benoit, 13 points, 6 assists and 3.5 steals per game; Hector Hernandez, 13 points, 8 boards and 3 steals per game; and Nathan Middleton, 3 steals and 8 points per game, add depth to the Rock attack.

Bay High is sparked by Gerald Watson, a 6'2" senior. He averages 19 points and 7 boards a game. He is assisted by Robert Vonture who averages 10 points 4 boards per game.

Shawn Piernas chips in 6 points and 3 steals per game.

Coach Jay Ladner commented, "SSC is hosting the rivalry this year. We expect a big crowd and they should witness a good ball game."

"Bay High is steadily improving and Coach Barney Ncaise has done an excellent job over there. We will have to play flawless ball to beat Bay High. We must stop Watson to win. That's the bottom line."

The action will begin with a junior varsity game at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity game starting after.

Hawks jump on Rocks

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The homestanding St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws bowed to the Hancock Hawks on January 4 at the Brother Peter Memorial Gym by the score of 68-60.

The halftime score was 24-21. It was a nip and tuck ball game during the first half.

SSC seemed to go cold in the third quarter. The Rocks only scored 8 points in the third period and were outscored 47-36 in the second half.

The Hawks turned up their intensity and took control in the third quarter. They used the play of Barrett Lohman and Kelton Ladner to keep the Rocks off balance.

SSC's Terry Lawyer was held to only 6 points for the game, well below his 20 point average.

Vince Moran was the bright spot for the Rocks, hitting 5 3-pointers en route to a 21 point performance to go with 3 assists and 6 boards.

Hector Hernandez grabbed 7 boards and added 10 points for the Rocks.

Brandon Benoit also chipped in 11 points.

JUBILEE
CASINO
AN ALPHA GULF COAST, INC. PROPERTY

Dear Friends:

After waiting many months to open the Jubilee Casino, our dreams and aspirations have finally been realized, and we are sincerely grateful for the support of the Gulf Coast community.

We will open our doors for two days beginning at 7 p.m. on Friday, January 7th. We will then close for two days, and officially reopen at 7 p.m. Tuesday, January 11th, pending gaming commission approval.

When gaming came to Mississippi many months ago, we decided to get involved, but instead of building just another casino, we wanted to create something really special. And we have done just that.

The Jubilee Casino's exterior captures the look, the style and the spirit of the New Orleans French Quarter and the excitement of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. When you come through our doors, you'll enter a grand ballroom with a magnificent crystal chandelier and sweeping wrought iron staircases.

At the Jubilee, we have the same games as other casinos, and our dealers always greet you with a warm friendly smile. But, we give you something more to look forward to every time you visit. We offer the finest in dining, including extra fresh seafood and breads baked in our own ovens, daily.

We've built a 400-seat show room with top attractions every night. In addition to the exciting sounds of New Orleans jazz, we will present country, pop and rock 'n roll legends. In fact, we open with the renowned Dukes of Dixieland, and they will be featured much of the year. And don't miss our special entertainment on the pier, from jugglers and mimes to tap dancers and tarot card readers.

When you're looking for gaming excitement with a New Orleans flair ... plus great food, star quality entertainment, we hope you will visit us. We look forward to serving you.

Organize financial records for 1994

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer Money
Management Specialist

Get financial records and important papers organized as you gather information for taxes. Being organized can make you feel more in control. But most of all, documents will be accessible if something should happen to you.

Most people need three storage places, a safe deposit box, a fireproof box at home, and a friend, relative or attorney who will keep copies of critical documents.

For a small fee, a safe deposit box can be rented at your financial institution. It is the best place to store valuable or hard-to-replace documents.

Keep the following papers in your box:

- Birth certificates
- Citizenship papers
- Passports
- Marriage/divorce papers
- Military discharge papers
- Personal Property Inventory
- Property deeds/purchase papers
- Legal agreements
- A copy of wills and codicils
- Financial documents

(bonds, CDs, stock certificates, IRA documents)
—Purchase/sale receipts for all investments
—Tax records

Consider carefully the names you wish included on the signature card for the box. If the box is in your name only, it is closed at your death.

However, only a trusted relative or friend would be appropriate for having access to such documents as listed above.

A fireproof box for the home can be purchased at office supply stores. Use it to store frequently used documents that would be costly or difficult to replace such as:

- Canceled checks
- Recent income tax returns
- Insurance policies
- Living will
- Power of attorney
- Testamentary letter
- Original copy of wills and codicils
- Burial instructions
- Warranties

The person who would manage your affairs in the event of your death or incapacity needs ready access to many documents and papers. Give this person:

- Power of attorney

- Living will
- Burial instructions
- Copy of will and codicils
- Names and addresses of people named in trusts, will, and power of attorney.

A frequently asked question related to financial records is, how long should I keep it? The rule to keep in mind is, when in doubt, don't throw it out! Records that should be kept permanently include:

- Income tax returns, work sheets, and documentation for deductions. Though the IRS generally recommends three years, tax records are important in buying and selling property, in divorce proceedings, and in any situation where your financial history is relevant.

—Proof of ownership records such as mortgages, purchase agreements, and canceled checks.

—Proof of debt repayment

—Insurance accident reports and claims

—Retirement and pension records

—Date and price of purchase for all investments other than property that might be sold or transferred to heirs

—Correspondence relating to legal and important matters

Pesticides in the diets of children

Feeding children a nutritionally balanced diet is often a challenge. Children are very opinionated in their food likes and dislikes.

For many children, fresh fruits and vegetables are well accepted. They are colorful, tasty and a good way to get vitamin C, vitamin A and fiber into their diets.

However, recent reports in the media indicate that these two food groups might be dangerous to feed to our children by containing pesticide residues in unsafe limits: "To feed or not to feed" — What should a parent, guardian or caregiver do?

Pesticides are used to prevent pest damage and loss of crops. The Environmental Protection Agency sets limits on the amount of a pesticide that can be used on crops. These limits are not only considered safe themselves, but they also have a safety factor built into them.

Children eat more food relative to their body weight than adults. A child's body may handle the pesticides differently from an adult. This may result in health risks that are lower or higher than for adult.

Most fruits and vegetables consumed by children have no pesticide residues or have residues hundreds of times below the allowed level. This concern over feeding children fruits and vegetables has resulted in some parents questioning their nutritional benefits.

The American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Dietetic Association, and the National Cancer Institute all recommend that children increase the number of fruits and vegetables in their diets. The potential health benefits of lowering heart disease and cancer are far greater than the risks.

There are some things caregivers can do to reduce the risk of pesticide residues on foods as well as enhance the overall food safety and nutritional quality of the diet:

Choose a variety of foods. This will ensure a balanced diet, and lower the chance of problems from any one type of food.

Choose produce that is free from mold, bruises and decay.

Wash produce in water and peel skin or outer leaves. Do not use kitchen detergents to wash produce. Detergents may leave residues that are unsafe.

Grow your own fruits and vegetables. This gives you more control over your food, as well as being a great activity you can do with your children.

When growing your own food, take extreme caution to follow label directions when applying chemicals and pesticides.

Know your grower. Purchasing produce from the back of a traveling truck could be risky. The grower may or may not have applied pesticides correctly.

Since the seller is not permanent, they are not threatened by having their business shut down. By the time authorities realize their produce is in violation of EPA regulations they have more than likely moved on to the next town.

Seed, plant catalogs offer 1994 varieties

By Dr. Milo Burnham

Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The new 1994 seed and plant catalogs are arriving in the mail along with garden magazines containing articles on the new varieties for 1994. Everyone with an interest in gardening will find something new.

The newest of the vegetable varieties are for commercial producers, and it will take a couple of years for them to trickle down to gardeners. But this process in Mississippi Gardens

— sweet corn - Cabaret, Festival, Krispy King, Maxim, Monte Carlo and Snowbird;

— squash - Bandit and Consul;

— tomatoes - Casa del Rey, Conquest, Joker and Mountain Supreme.

Let's see what some of these new varieties have to offer that might interest Mississippi gardeners. Conquest is a red tomato with a medium to tall determinate plant.

The plant has good disease resistance and with the commercial recommendation for production in Florida and Mexico, chances are it will do well in Mississippi gardens.

Mountain Supreme is a main season hybrid with large, red fruit. If it's a weet type developed for long distance shipping. Bicolor corn is still popular and Cabaret, Festival and Monte Carlo are of this type.

Bandit yellow, semi-crookneck squash is supposed to have some tolerance to cucumber mosaic virus and watermelon mosaic virus. This trait is badly needed since virus disease almost prevents gardeners from growing late summer and fall squash. Consul is a new zucchini hybrid.

Aruba pepper is a cubanella type with an ivory/lime-green color.

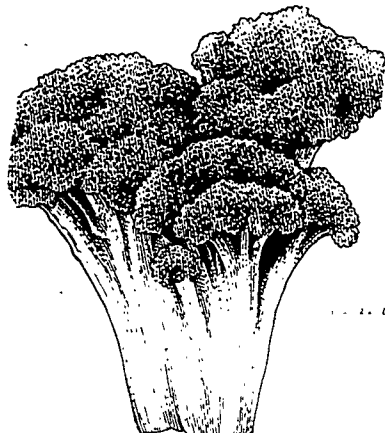

Rushmore bean has a medium-green, slender pod. The beans are held off the ground which should reduce pod rot and since the seeds are colored this bean should be tolerant of our cool, moist soils at spring planting.

Constanza hybrid cabbage produces medium-sized, blue-green heads that measure 6 to 8 inches in diameter. The big plus for this new hybrid is its resistance to tipburn, black rot and Fusarium wilt, three major cabbage diseases.

As with all hybrid cabbage, uniformity of maturity will be a problem for gardeners when all the heads are ready for harvest at the same time.

member of the Mountain series out of North Carolina -- Mountain Pride, Mountain Delight, Mountain Spring it is bound to do well in our gardens.

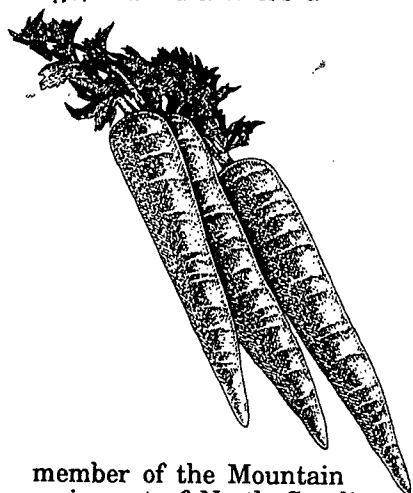

Most of the new sweet corn hybrids are the supersbrings new varieties to gardeners every year, and only the very best stay around long enough for gardeners to get them.

A recent magazine article listed the following new vegetable varieties for 1994:

- beans - Maxibel and Rushmore;
- broccoli - Captain, Major, Olympus and Superior;
- cabbage - Amtrak, Constanza and Quick Start;
- cantaloupe - HMX 9584, Sunex 7043 and Veracruz;
- carrots - Cheyenne, Gladiator and Royal Cross;
- cucumbers - Carnaval, Meteor and Val-U-More;
- lettuce - Cabernet Red, El Dorado, Marsala, Prime Time and Simpson Elite (all primarily for the West);
- peppers - Aruba and Foulki;

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

What do you do when you bend the budget for that nice-looking tray of steaks or chops at the market, only to discover when you get them home that any resemblance between the luscious-looking topside and the fatty, gristly underside is, as they say in novels, "purely coincidental?"

Well, if you're anything at all like me, the first thing you do is to give full vent to your disappointment and hurl imprecations at everyone and everything—in absentia—from the original animal to the butcher to the packager, and so forth!

Then, of course, you start trying to salvage something from this minor disaster, as you know that you have to use the meat up somehow. You wouldn't dream of wasting it!

I had just removed two pork steaks from the package, planning to braise them in apple cider, along with a couple of sliced apples.

Alas and alack—those aren't exactly the words which I used—when I turned them over and saw the fat and gristle, I had to think of something else. So, I trimmed the fat and gristle off, then cut the meat off the bones, and into small medallions and chunks.

I browned the pork pieces in the barest bit of oil in a heavy skillet, topped them with several slices of lemon, and tossed in chopped celery, parsley and green onions (with the tops).

Then I sloshed a generous half cup of white wine over, next a half cup of tomato juice, along with a bay leaf, pepper and a bit of thyme. I simmered the whole mangle, covered, for 50 minutes or so.

The tang of the lemon rind, along with the tomato juice, add a special flavor to this dish and also help tenderize the meat. Cook until the pork pieces are tender to the fork.

Just before serving over rice, I sliced half an avocado over, and for an extra touch, tossed in several ripe olives. You may need to add more tomato juice if the sauce thickens up too much.

This is an excellent way to stretch a small amount of meat; and in honor of the sounds issuing from the kitchen that day, I called this:

CUSSIN' GOOD PORK

Here's the list of ingredients: 2 pork steaks, cut into pieces (you may want to use strips instead)

1 lemon, sliced
2 Tbsp. each chopped celery, parsley, green onions
1/2 cup white wine
1 cup or more tomato juice as needed
Bay leaf, dash of thyme
Proceed as above. (2 or more servings)

1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper

Saute the pecan halves in butter in skillet for no more than 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients, stirring well. Place the pecan mixture in a shallow baking pan, and bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. (Yields 4 cups).

Package in whatever quantity you wish in clear bags tied with red and green ribbons, or in small baskets or other containers.

Or, if you prefer a sweeter offering, try:

PECAN GLACE

1 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. cream of tartar
1/2 cup water
2 cups pecan halves

In a medium-size, heavy saucepan combine sugar and cream of tartar. Mix well and add water. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly and keep on cooking until the mixture is an amber color, then quickly add the pecans and stir. Spread out quickly on a buttered cookie sheet. After it cools, break apart.

Even more easy on the hurried cook is:

PECAN GRALLE (Sugared Pecans)

Bring a cup of sugar and half a cup of water, lightly salted, to a slow boil. Cook until you can gather sugar threads to form a soft ball when dropped into a cup of water. Add 2 cups of pecan halves and a teaspoon of vanilla to the mixture, stirring rapidly until the pecans are coated with the sugar. Pour out onto waxed paper, let cool, and separate the pecan halves as they cool. Double recipes as needed.

ST. ANN AND ST. JOHN NEWS

Thoughts for meditation: I asked the New Year for some message sweet,

Some rule of life with which to guide my feet; I asked, and paused: He answered soft and low, "God's will to know."

Great peace have they who love Your law, and nothing can make them stumble.

Psalm 119:165 Be at war with your vices, at peace with your neighbors, and let every new year find you a better person.

—Richard Woodstone Let us throw off everything that hinders and the sin that so easily entangles, and let us run with perseverance the race marked out for us.

Hebrews 12:1 People laugh at New Year's resolutions... but we can all use some reflection followed by a humble prayer.

We will shout for joy when you are victorious and will lift up our banners in the name of our God. May the Lord grant all your requests.

Psalm 20:5 If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness.

I John 1:9 Father, I do confess my sins to You. I name them before You, even though You already know them all. Thank You for forgiveness. Amen. * * *

Father Kelly and St. Ann parishioners extend thanks to Father Arthur Winters, SVD for giving of his time and talents in helping with the Christmas and other masses during the holiday season.

Leave wild animals where they belong

By Dr. Wynn Jones
Veterinarian
MSU College of Veterinary Medicine

"My 10-year-old daughter recently found a baby bird on the ground. My daughter wanted to pick it up and put it in a box. She thought she could feed it and eventually set it free."

"She often wants to adopt an orphaned or injured wild animal. What should we do when we find such animals?"

Many children have a fascination with animals, especially wild animals. While it is good to encourage their interest in nature, they should realize that wild animals do not make good pets nor should an untrained person try to raise one.

Explain to your daughter that even though her first impulse is to pick up the baby bird, she really is doing more harm than good.

Dr. Merilee Holland, assistant professor at Mississippi State University's College of Veterinary Medicine and faculty advisor for the Student Wildlife Support Group, offered these guidelines for dealing with injured or orphaned wild animals.

When you see what appears to be an orphaned wild animal, do not pick it up. If you watch it for several hours, you will probably see the mother returning to her babies.

Many well-intentioned people have brought in fawns believing them to be orphaned. However, a mother deer commonly will hide her babies when she needs to be separated from them. Thus many of these fawns had been unwittingly kidnapped.

Do not attempt to raise a wild animal. Birds, raccoons and other wild animals require a specific diet and environment to thrive.

What may seem like a healthy diet and comfortable surroundings to you can be potentially fatal to a wild animal.

It is never wise for an untrained person to handle an orphaned or injured wild animal. Because of their wild instinct, these animals are unpredictable. When in a stressed situation they may scratch or bite in self defense.

Some animals may carry diseases which could infect the individual. This is especially true with birds of prey which have sharp talons and beaks.

Mississippi laws prohibit the domestication of wild animals for health and safety reasons. People who "tamed" wild animals before the law was enacted and special institutions (zoos and research units) must have special permits to keep wildlife.

When you see an injured wild animal, the best course of action is to contact the conservation officer. These individuals are trained in handling wild animals and have access to resources to give them proper care.

In serious cases, conservation officers may bring the injured animal to MSU for care from the Wildlife Support Group.

This faculty-supervised, veterinary student organization receives private donations to care for injured wild animals and return them to their environment.

of cigarettes a day. Are animals at risk of lung disease like human non-smokers living in the same house. I'm concerned for our puppy."

Secondhand smoke can have the same effect on animals as on people. While primary lung cancer is uncommon in dogs, a dog exposed to a smoke-filled environment would be at risk of developing lung disease.

A dog with lung cancer may develop a chronic cough and even cough up blood. Unfortunately, the prognosis for a dog with lung disease is very poor. Surgery and/or chemotherapy is usually required, but chances of survival are not great.

At the very least, a dog continually exposed to cigarette smoke will be more prone to respiratory tract infections. Symptoms include coughing, sneezing and nasal discharge.

The best way to protect your puppy would be for your husband to kick the habit. In the meantime, minimize exposure by keeping your puppy out of the room while your husband is smoking.

If you have questions concerning pets, write Dr. Wynn Jones, MSU/CVM, Box 9825, Mississippi State, MS 39762.
